Yesterday evening and last night instead of sporadic cases the fever seemed to have reached the epidemic state, fights having occurred in several bar rooms, in one of which a negro used a beer bottle on the cranium of an antagonist, damaging the bottle more than the skull. The last scrap reported was a family row-father-in-law and son-inlaw resorting to blows as the result of some divergence of opinion. Most of the belligerents were arraigned before Mayor Simpson this morning and he imposed suitable fines on the guilty parties.
